

Policy on Submission of a Revised Application after Deferral

If an application is deferred, the applicant will be provided the reasons for deferral in writing and is expected to address those reasons before resubmitting. Because of the time required to coordinate and conduct reviews each time someone is deferred and re-submits, a “Resubmission Fee” of $20 will be added for the first resubmission of a deferred application, $40 for a second resubmission of deferred application, $60 for a third resubmission of deferred application, and so on. This is not intended as a penalty, but as an incentive to be sure the application is as clear and complete as it can be before any submission.